

Ellen Rutkowski, mezzo soprano, is well-known regionally as a soloist, recitalist, and voice teacher. Recent performances include Simply Grand concerts at the WVIA studio, scenes with Mostly Opera, solo work with the Arcadia Chorale and Marywood University's Concert Choir, and recitals with pianists Rick Hoffenberg, Arno Drucker and the late David Burge.

Mrs. Rutkowski received Bachelors' degrees in Music Therapy and Psychology from College Misericordia, and a Masters' degree in Music Education with a concentration in vocal pedagogy from Marywood University. She teaches public school music, and is a part-time faculty member of Marywood University's Department of Music, Theater, and Dance, teaching Opera Workshop, German Diction, Vocal Methods, and Applied Voice. She is a student of Ruth Drucker of Baltimore, and for many years, studied with the late Thomas Houser of New Holland.
